ARGENTINEAN RED SHRIMP

THE RED GOLD OF THE SOUTH ATLANTIC

Wild shellfish of the highest quality, the Pleoticus muelleri is a specie found in the cold and clean waters of the Patagonian coast of Argentina, in the Southwest Atlantic. There are two main fishing seasons throughout the year. One going from October until Mars, which the product is caught in-shore by traditional vessels on the Chubut coastal area. During the off-shore season, from June to September, the shrimps are caught in national waters, outside 12 miles, by deep-sea vessels. During both seasons, the product is processed and frozen in our own plant located at Puerto Madryn.
